

Food and Beverage Manufacturing

A welcoming home for food processors

Fairfield is home to well-known food and beverage manufacturers, including Jelly Belly Candy Company, Anheuser-Busch and Guittard Chocolate. These companies were drawn to Fairfield for our high quality, abundant water, state of the art sewer treatment facilities, our affordable land costs, our strategic Bay Area location on major transportation routes and our pro-business local government.

Fairfield actively supports manufacturers by addressing their workforce and operating needs. Fairfield launched a manufacturing workforce initiative that, with a grant from Governor Schwarzenegger, the county Workforce Investment Board has taken county-wide. Fairfield also invited non-profit consultant, the Corporation for Manufacturing Excellence, to work with local manufacturers on LEAN manufacturing techniques.

Fairfield is ready to support the food and beverage processing industry and your business. We have the water and sewer capacity, the land, the available industrial buildings, the convenient transportation routes and the support you need to thrive in Fairfield.

A business park that's right for your business

Companies looking to locate in Fairfield have a variety of different business and industrial park settings from which to choose. The business parks in the northern Cordelia area of Fairfield emphasize office and campus-style uses, while others such as Solano Business Park and Busch Corporate Center allow a variety of office, light industrial and flex space. In Tolenas Industrial Park, Fairfield has some of the only remaining vacant properties in Solano County where heavy industry is both permitted and rail served.

For information on the business and industrial parks in Fairfield, such as the size of the park, remaining acreage, contact information, and a list of businesses located in the park, visit our online available properties database at www.Fairfield4Business.com.

“We chose Fairfield after looking at many Bay Area sites. In the end, Fairfield was the most favorable. Its location near major freeways makes it a good distribution point, and its excellent water quality and supply were a major factor in our decision to move here.”
